After successful careers in the Air Force and private industry, Oakley launched the third phase of his professional life, Oakley Entreprises. His objective is to capitalize on 44+ years of success in leading people, managing resources and programs. He has proven his ability to operate in a variety of settings with people of different cultures and backgrounds, having lived in such countries as France, Morocco, United Kingdom and the Republic of Korea.

UPCOMING SEMINARS, 4 - 5:30 PM, MZ 126

January 22 - Your Life Probably Won’t Turn Out the Way You Think It Will
Stuart Bennett, retired dentist
Christopher Herndon, councilman, City of Denver

February 5 - Leadership Challenges in Engineering, Procurement and Construction
Mike Coyle, former senior executive, Jacobs Engineering
Karen Wiemelt, senior VP, GM, North American Nuclear, CH2M/Jacobs Engineering

February 19 - Leadership Challenges of the Entrepreneurial Sector
Mike Bertolli, chief science officer, Avrio Analytics
Jason Kania, general partner, K Squared Fund
Chic Naumer, CEO, CiviCore

March 5 - The Strength of Personal, Team and Corporate Visions
Michael McAtee, retired VP, strategic projects North America, BASF Corporation
Hugh Rice, senior chairman, FMI Capital Advisors

March 19 - Leadership Challenges in the Telecommunications Industry
Vernon Irvin, EVP, president, government, education, business, CenturyLink
Howard Janzen, chairman, Cool Planet

April 2 - Leadership Challenges of Non-Profit and Government Organizations
Christine Benero, president, CEO, Mile High United Way
Jamie Van Leeuwen, advisor for Gov. Hickenlooper; CEO, Global Livingston Institute

April 16 - What Type of Leader Will You Become?
Michael Oakley, Oakley Entreprises

Meet the speakers and learn more at EconBus.MINES.edu.